

Job Posting – Project Scholar

Western Pennsylvania Disability History and Action Consortium (www.wpdhac.org) is seeking candidates—historian, archivist or graduate-level scholar—for a project to research and document the history of Black, Indigenous, and People of Color (BIPoC) with disabilities in Western Pennsylvania, and to share the history in a variety of formats.

BIPoC candidates for this independent contractor position are encouraged to apply.

Time Frame: September 15, 2021 to September 15, 2022

Time Commitment: 7 -10 hours per week

Hourly rate: $25-$35, depending on experience

The project is divided into two parts:

Outreach, Research and Documentation

Project Scholar conducts intensive work, guided by the Community Advisory Committee, Consortium leaders, and network of historians and archivists.

Community Engagement

Project Scholar develops and leads presentations and dialogue with target audiences that are focused on contemporary issues of race and disability, civil rights and social justice, and are positioned to advance equitable disability rights.

Project Tasks:

* Establish Community Advisory Committee to identify potential histories, assist with community connections, and act as resource for ongoing work

*Document of at least 5 histories of Western Pennsylvanians with disabilities who are people of color

* Engage with at least 5 community audiences to share the histories, connect the histories to contemporary issues, and support advocacy for equity

* Develop media to amplify the histories and themes

Qualifications:

History research experience

Oral history experience

Community engagement experience

Public history experience

Strong communication skills, including public speaking

Strong organizational, coordination and leadership skills

Experience working with archives a plus

Experience with disability history a plus.

To Apply:

Email letter of interest and resume/CV to Tina Calabro, Acting Project Director, Western Pennsylvania Disability History and Action Consortium, info@wpdhac.org

Application deadline is September 17, 2021.

For more information:

info@wpdhac.org

412-204-7199